

Make some music for the metro

When you are held up at work or have a deadline to submit an assignment, you obviously don't have the time for a concert. But what if the concert comes to you? A concert when you are on your way home? The Metro Music Edit is hosting events that celebrate music and art at the metro stations around the city. The Metro Music Edit 2019 features several artistes and performers of various genres performing to celebrate the spirit of Chennai. One of the concerts hosted earlier this month was at Central Metro, by an organisation called Aanmajothi. It began with a traditional nadaswaram performance by Mylai Karthikeyan and his troupe, followed by Myilaye Kayilai Guruji and Naganatha who were oduvars. The two-and-a-half-hour show ended with a vibrant Bharatanatyam performance by Archana Kanthan and her troupe. You wouldn't want to miss the next one on January 1, by Nimirvu Kalaiyagam.

CMRL also invites performers of various genres to participate in this Metro Music Edit. Send in your details to pro.cmrl@tn.gov.in and ampr.cmrl2@gmail.com.
